What is the future of justice?

This year's conference theme seeks to provide an opportunity to take stock of where we as global / local communities currently stand on a range of justice and governance issues, to creatively envision where we want to be in the future, and—importantly—to map out practical pathways to achieve our goals of greater justice.

- How do we concretely tackle current issues yet stay informed and guided by a broader spiritual or ethical vision?
- How can we contribute to an advancing civilization through the practical application of justice in various fields and arenas of endeavour, large or small?
- How can we transform current situations of injustice to reflect greater justice for all?

The conference programme will include focused plenary / panel presentations as well as participatory sessions and workshops.

The Justice Conference, upon its 20th anniversary, invites the submission of presentation and workshop proposals relating to this year's theme, 'Advancing Justice – Spiritual Foundations and Practical Application'. Submissions by legal scholars and practitioners, as well as by others in non-legal fields, are very welcome. Proposals should be for shorter panel presentations or for longer workshops, keeping in mind the Conference's goal to be participatory and to invite discussion. Proposals of no more than 300 words (along with a short bio of no longer than 200 words) should be emailed to intljustconf@gmail.com before 15 December 2014 (first call) or 15 January 2015 (second call). Early submissions are encouraged.
